FRANKFORT, AUGUST 9, 1884.

Meek-Ziegler.

The First Presbyterian Church was filled Wednesday evening to overflowing with the friends of Mr. John B. Meek and Miss Sallie Ziegler to witness the ceremony that should unite their lives, it is hoped, for many long and happy years.

The Church was brilliantly illuminated and the pulpit and space in front so completely filled with beautiful flowers as to nearly hide the officiating minister, Rev. Dr. J. McC. Blaney, as he arose to perform the ceremony.

The party arrived at the Church a few minutes after eight o'clock and entered by the right aisle, preceded by Messrs. W. C. Sneed and Sam. D. Johnson, T. J. Todd and Ed. H. Grant, ushers, and Miss Ida and Mr. John Ziegler, brother and sister of the bride, attendants. After an impressive ceremony by Dr. Blaney they left the Church by the left aisle, and proceeded to the residence of the bride's mother, in Belle Point, where, together with a few friends, they partook of an elegant supper and enjoyed the evening.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. John L. Ziegler, formerly of the firm of Hatchitt, Ziegler & Co., and a young lady highly spoken of by all who know her. The groom is the junior member of the firm of Ferguson & Meek, proprietors of the Capital City Machine Works, and a young man who is universally popular with all who know him. Here's luck to Jack and his bride.

Dr. John D. Wood, the new Public Printer, went into office Monday, and on Thursday he made a formal demand upon Messrs. Major, Johnston & Barrett for all unfinished State work in their hands. The laws passed by the last General Assembly, a volume of Kentucky Reports and some other work, are in an unfinished condition and the Yeoman firm claim the right to complete them, as they have them under way. The Attorney General has given it as his opinion that they have that right, but it seems the new Public Printers are not satisfied. The same question has never been presented before, the outgoing printers having managed to get the work all off their hands before their term expired. It may prove a knotty question to solve.

Mrs. David Meriwether, jr., formerly Miss Addie Taylor, of this city died at the residence of her husband in Louisville Saturday evening, after a brief illness with peritonitis. She left five small children, the youngest but a week old. Her young husband has the deepest sympathy of his many friends in this city.

The City Council on Tuesday evening sold two lots off of the old Market-house property. Mr. C. B. Jennings purchased a lot 40 feet front off the east end, next the depot, for $1,550, on which he will erect a store-room and residence. Fifty feet front off the end next to Ann street was sold to Mr. Mike Sullivan for $2,000. There are still 97 feet of the lot unsold.

Mr. W. T. Runyan, City Treasurer, on the last day of grace for tax-payers last year collected $5,700 and odd dollars. On Thursday last, which was to have been the last day for payment of city taxes for this year to him, he collected $5,119.59. To collect, count and receipt for so large a sum in small amounts is no light job and the custodian of the city purse was kept busy all day long.

Mr. Ed. L. Meagher's little daughter had a terrible fall Friday afternoon. She attempted to jump into her father's lap, while he was sitting on the stairway leading to the basement of his residence, and fell through the hand-railing to the floor below, a distance of twelve or fourteen feet, bruising her head and face badly. She has suffered but little inconvenience from the fall, but her escape from death was truly wonderful.

Mr. John Hanly, of this county, has a three-year-old Alderney cow that recently dropped her first calf which had five well developed legs. It lived only a short time.
